

CURRICULUM LUCIA ANGIOLINI

L. Angiolini is a Professor of Paleontology at Department of Earth Sciences "A. Desio" of Università degli studi di Milano (UMIL).

She has a degree in Geology (1990) and a PhD in Earth Sciences (1993).

She has 27 years' experience in the multidisciplinary study of Paleozoic fossils, Permian brachiopods in particular, as testified by her very rich production documented by 95 papers in international journals and highly quoted, and by more than 130 abstracts to international congresses (h-index scopus: 25). She has capacity to coordinate and lead international projects (Synthesys funded by EC, DARIUS funded by a consortium of European research institutes and oil companies, H2020-MSCA-ETN-ITN Base-Line Earth funded by EC, INTERREG SCOPRI). She has extensive international collaborations (GSI, Tehran; BGS, UK; Dpt. Earth Sciences, Leicester, UK ; UFR Sciences Terre, Lille, France; Dpt. Geosciences, Copenhagen; GEOMAR, Kiel, Germany; Dpt. Geol. Sc., Alabama, USA; Dpt. Earth Sc., Brock Univ., Canada; Dpt. Geoscience, Calgary; University Museum, Tokyo; Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München, Germany) testified by the publication of numerous joint papers.

Her supervisory and mentoring skills are documented by 37 diploma theses, 29 master theses, 7 PhDs and one postdoc she has supervised at UMIL, and by 6 PhD theses she has co-supervised abroad.

She teaches courses of Paleontology, Stratigraphic paleontology and Paleoecology for diploma and master degrees at Department of Earth Sciences "A. Desio".

She is currently coordinator of the courses of Natural Sciences and Biogeosciences at UMIL.

Her international visibility is enhanced by her positions as secretary of the Subcommittee on Permian Stratigraphy (IUGS), President of the Società Paleontologica Italiana (SPI); Editor-in-chief of the ISI journal Rivista Italiana di Paleontologia Stratigrafica; Editor of Permophiles, newsletter of the Subcommittee on Permian Stratigraphy (SPS), International Commission on Stratigraphy, IUGS; associate editor of Episodes and Ameghiniana.
